résumé

kinema ikon, a very short c.v.

The experimental art group was formed in 1970 in Arad/Transylvania/Romania, as a satellite of the local School of the Arts. Later, it became part of the Museum of Art as its Multimedia Workshop. The founding member, George Sabau, was a professor of Aesthetics at the High School for the Arts in Arad. Most of the current members of the group are his former pupils, Alumni of the High School of the Arts.

During its first twenty years of activity (1970-1990), kinema ikon created over 60 experimental short films, synchronous with Western art practices: kinetic abstractions, scratch animation, surrealist films, non-figurative dynamic forms painted directly onto film, visual essays constructed from fragments of material reality, etc. Under the Communist regime, these works could be seen almost exclusively as "samizdat." Although an important presence in the Romanian art scene of the time, kinema ikon was banned from participating in exhibitions abroad by the political, secret police. However, immediately after the fall of the Berlin Wall, kinema ikon was able to respond to an invitation to screen a selection of experimental movies at the Centre Pompidou/ Cinéma du Musée/ curated by Jean-Michel Bouhours.

The use of the term experimental in relation to our practice is not solely tied to the esthetics of the moving image. It also applies to our interdisciplinary approach, to the transference of creative languages in between multiple fields. The members of our group specialized in visual arts, architecture, philology, music and photography, instead of cinematography. They agreed to partake in the game, creating experimental films the use the vocabulary and grammar of other alternative media.

After the fall of communism, during the next four years (1990-1994) the group focused on video art and video projection installations. In 1994 came a radical change, when a new generation became interested exclusively in digital art, and for the next ten years the group worked primarily on digital support (CD.ROM, DVD) and net.art platforms. Amongst the most important works from this period were Calin Man's on-line projects (Man is presently the leader of the group), interactive multimedia installations and, also the magazine, Intermedia – the group's periodical, which includes theoretical texts. kinema ikon has participated in numerous national and international art exhibitions.

Since 2004 until today (2015), kinema ikon's youngest generation, consisting mainly of alumni from Arad High School of the Arts and the Arts Universities of Timisoara and Cluj (specializing in graphic arts, design, multimedia) returned to analogue media. This young generation has collaborated with the 90s digital generation to develop Analogue-Digital installations. Their shared program has become evident in events and exhibitions since 2011, for instance the work in-progress Wunderkammer and the 2014-2015 project kinema ikon: serial [kinema ikon series], of which season one and two ended recently. This two seasons consisted of twenty personal exhibitions by the youngest members of the group, curated by Calin Man. kinema ikon is the main producer of Media Art Festival Arad.
